The idea of charging to the "stupidity or malignity" of the News, Mr. Hobart's irreparable blunder at Horicon, is rather good.—
But it is clearly "not transferable." Had the News invented the "cognouit," its responsibility in the premises would have been clear enough. Inasmuch, however, as Mr. Hobart said these things, why should not the News publish them? AN OLD THING BECOME NEW.—Some one has re-vamped an old English epigram for the New York Evening Post; but, as usual in such attempts, without improving upon the original. The new version reads:

Well street—An Epigram.

At the head of the street the lawyers are found, At the foot, on the river, the vessels abound, Fig—stranger—oh fig. 10 some safer retreat, For there's craft on the river, and craft in the street,

The epigram as it appeared in London prints some years ago, ran thus:

At the top of the street the lawyers you greet,
At the bottom the barger you're certain to meet.
Fly, honesty, fly to some safer retreat,
For there's craft in the river and craft in the street. To which some witty punster rejoined:

Why should honesty fly to some safer retreat, From the lawyers and barges, oddrot 'em When the lawyers are just at the top of the street, And the barges are just at the bottom.

Why should honesty fly to some safer retreat, from the lawyers and barges, oddret ten When the lawyers are just at the top of the street, and the barges are just at the top of the street, and the barges are just at the bottom.

MARSHAL McMahon's Horse.—The honest Celtic pride which prompted the presentation of a horse to Marshal McMahon, Duke of Magenta, by some Irish gentlemen of New York, is to superficial feeling at all, but can exhibit a solid subscription of $2,000 as a proof of its depth and sincerity. Capt. McMahon, who has taken much interest in the matter, has addressed a latter to the Marshal, by agreeable to him to accept the intended present. As the Marshal is human, it is presumed that, like "Barkis," he will be ignored company of artillery from Baton Ronge. The men surrendered pesceably. They had no arms, LEAVENWORTH ELECTION. The Democracy Routed! .

[From the Leavenworth Times, 5th inst.] Yesterday was a glorious day for our city. The prople were out, and spoke for the rights of the people. Even the Fourth Ward wa-vered. All the rest were carried triumph-

The majority for the Constitution in Leavenworth is two hundred and thirty.

All honor to the cause which overrides party. All honor to the people who can do right in disregard of party. The heart-beat of the freemen of Leavenworth is for freedom, and they will stand by men who stand most steadfastly and truly by it.

The Chicago Custom House. Since the opening of navigation not less than fifty instances have come to our knowlties of Marathon, Portage and Wood met in edge in which the Collector at Chicago, or some of his subordinates, have openly connived at violations of the Revenue Law. We of Stevens Point, for Member of Assembly .-- have already called attention to the fact that vessels loading at this port with breadstuffs tion, and we are confident that we shall be and other produce are frequently reported in the Buffalo papers as coming from Chicago, District from the defeat it sustained last fall. the papers getting their information of course from the Custom House. Every vessel comaffirming the principles of the National Reoublican Platform of 1856, and of the Repub falo, is compelled by the Chicago Collector lican Platform of the State of Wisconsin in to take a clearance from Chicago the same as 1859, and of the Democratic Platform of the if loading there, and pay him a fee for this illegal operation, and the Captains of these vessels, according to their own testimony, have almost invariably been instructed by the same efficer or his deputies, not to report themselves at the Milwaukee Custom House, that having cleared from Chicago, there was no necessity of clearing here. Now the law does not require a vessel to take out a clear ance going from one State to any port in an adjoining State, but it does require vessels going to any foreign ports, or from this State to New York, to clear from the port at which they load, under penalty of a heavy fine for neglecting, or refusing to comply with the The Characteristic and the state was notive yesterday, and an advance of 1 to 2 cents established on all grades. Receipts amounted to about sixty-cour thousand bushels, including four namely, 1,748 bbls flour, and 55,559 bushels of wheat. Shipments were inconsiderable.

In the New York market yesterday, there was a shade better, and wheat advanced one cent. law. The Chicago Collector, therefore, in redebted for the acquisition and admission into the Union of the States of Louisiana, Florida, Arkansas, Missouri and Texas. It repealed the Missouri Compromise line, and peaked the Fugitive Slave Law. It has never given "aid and comfort" to the enemy when wewere engaged in a foreign war, but from the days of Jefferson down to the present time, and the first of the control of the weeks. One vessel however, has eluded the vigilance of our Custom House officers, taking a cargo of wheat from this port with a Chicago clearance. On her return she will probably learn that Chicago is not Milwaukee.

As our former allusions to this abuse have seen of no avail, we shall now take the rouble to send a marked copy of this paper to head quarters and see what effect that will

We hope our friends throughout the State will take hold at once and see that Tas Sextises is placed in the STOW, and the Nows malevolent flings at an interest in this matter and see that his locality is all supplied with THE SENTINGL for the Campaign.

JERMAIN & BRIGHTMAN. Publishers Milwaukee Sentine!.

PROGRESS OF THE CAMPAIGN. Secessity of Organization.

The political campaign in this State has fairly opened. The candidates on both sides have already addressed numerous public meetings. Gov. RANDALL and his competitor Mr. Honart, have spoken to crowded and interested assemblages at Oshkosh, Horicon, Beaver Dam, Portage, La Crosse, Platteville, and one or two other points. It is evident from the number who throng to hear these from the number who throng to hear these discussions that the people are alive to the importance of the contest and anxious to under again for the heavy lawlibbon, Forace, &c., in an importance of the contest and anxious to unerviable position in the enemy's ranks. hear the great principles at stake discussed ruptions by the audience. Whether Demomeetings, both speakers have been received | Dog ? and treated with the utmost respect, and have been listened to with patient attention. Our Democratic friends profess to be satisfied with the part their champion, Mr. Ho-BART, has horne in these discussions—always excepting, of course, that unlucky Horicon speech. We are content to take them at their word, and to admit that Mr. HOBART has made as good a fight for the cause which he represents, as the case admits of. As to the Republicans, there is but one opinion among them. They are delighted with the gallant and effective manner, in which the Republican Standard Bearer, Gov. RANDALL, has met and repelled the attacks of his competitor, to the people, the Republican cause has gained will not hear any of the speakers now on the in neighborhoods where meetings have been, or will be held, and able and eloquent speeches made, who will neglect to attend the polls, unless means are taken to ensure that attendance. What remains then to be done to make sure of a Republican triumph in November is ORGANIZATION-thorough, reliable and efficient-Organization, that will apprise every Elector in each District of the day, the place and the purpose of the Election; and that will bring him to the polls to do his duty.

No man acquainted with the political history and antecedents of this State, doubts for, a moment that it is REPUBLICAN in Sentiment. No one doubts that with a full vote it will be Republican in action. That full now to election be devoted to the good work monopolized. of organizing the Republican troops for the decisive contest. We cannot be beaten, save by our own neglect, indifference, or apathy. Let it not be said, when the polls close at sundown on the eighth of November, that the Republicans of Wisconsin suffered a defeat, when they might easily have achieved a victory. Rather let us one and all strive to make our triumph on that day the most signal one that has yet crowned our arms and vindicated our principles.

A Little Too Fast, Neighbor.

A Little Too rast, heighbor.

The Sentinel states that we have vouched for the correctness of the report which we published of Randali's and Hobart's speeches. This is not strictly true, because we stated at the time, that neither of the gentlemen had an opportunity to revise the report of his speech, and that there might be, and doubless were, some inaccurractes in it. That it was as correct as such reports usually are, we do not doubt, and yet there may have been some, but not many, passages so reported as to materially change the meaning which the speaker intended to convey.—News of Sandag.

This is no would a tileach hold if that would

This is so small a "loop-hole," that even Mr. Hosart, practiced as he is in such feats, cannot crawl through it. No "revision" could alter what he said about the Barstow Administration. The Horicon Argus, a Democratic organ, whose editor was no doubt present at the discussion, avers that the pointed him Commissioner of the General doctor did at first resort to the "whiskey speeches " were faithfully reported," There is no doubtlef the fact. What Mr. HOBART said of "BARSTOW and the Balance" he said deliberately and with " malice prepense and he spoke "carelessly and inconsiderately," or BOTH-WAYS must stand by his Horicon record in this matter.

A Pardiction Fulfilled.—We predicted yesterday that Gov. Randall would switch off on a side track before long, and it turns out that we were right. He was at Waukesha pretenday, leaving Hobart in undisputed possession of the field.—Weise.

"The wish was father to that thought." The News and its yoke-fellows would be only too glad to see Gov. RANDALL "leaving Ho-BART in undisputed possession of the field." But they need not "lay that flattering unction to their souls." Executive business, which could not be postponed, compelled Gov. RAN-DALL to forego his appointment at Shullsburg, but his piace was well supplied. The Gov. ernor will meet Mr. Hobart against Mineral Elections were held last week. They result-Point, this evening; and, as heretofore, give ed more favorably for the Republicans than WAYS.

RECEITTS OF PRODUCED IS ST. LOUIS—GLOONY INDICATIONS—Existerday we published a table in our commercial columns, which must have furnished our merchants, or rather the entire body of our citizens with food for grave reflection—we had almost said, cause for alzern. We refer to the tabular statement of the receipts of produce by river and raft in this city for the current said preceding year. In the article of door there is, it appears, a falling off this year, compared with last year up to the same date, (this of october,) of more than 200,000 barrels. The decrease in wheat exercist 460,000 bathels; and in oats nearly the same enormous denomination is experienced. Still comparing both years for the same period, we find a falling off in heap to the extent of 6,500 bales, and in whisky of 17,000 barrels.—St. Louis for this heavy fall—

THE OLD DAKEN STAFF.

Of what is the old man thicking,
As he leans on his old oakes staff;
From the May-day passing strinking,
He heads not the merry laugh.
But the tents of the old man flow
As he looks on the young and the gay;
Am his gray head moving slow,
Keeps time to the air as they play. The elders around him are drinking, But not one cap will be quad'; Of what is the old man thinking, As he leans on his old oaken staff.

The not with vain repining,
That the old man sheds a tear;
This not his strength declining,
He sighs not to linger here. But there's a spell in the air they play, And the old man's eyes grow dim; For it brings to mind a past May-day, And dear friends lost to him. The scenes before him strinking, From the dance and the merry laugh, Of the calm repose he's thinking, the caim repose he's thinking, As he leans on his old caken staff. ADMIRAL HOPE.

A Reminiscence of the War of 1812. The recent disaster to British arms at Pe iho, has re-called the capture of the U. S. trigate President, during the last war with England, in consequence of the connection of Admiral Hope with both affairs. The President was captured by a British squadron off New York, in January, 1815, one of the ships being the frigate Endymion, commanded by Captain Hope, who as Admiral, was recently repulsed so severely by the Chinese at Pelho. The President was captured under the following circumstences: lowing circumstances:

lowing circumstances:

A small American squadron, consisting of the President (44 guns) Commodore Decatur; the Peacock (18) Captain Warrington; the Hornet (18) Captain Biddle, and a store ship, was collected in New York in the fail of 1814, destined for a cruise to the Bast Indies. The samples of the trace with Indies. The squadron did not get to sea until the middle of January, 1815, at which time, a British force, the Majestic (64,) the Endymion (40,) the Pomone (38,) and the Tanedas (38,) was stationed Vir New York harbor, watching the American vessels.

A heavy gale, on the 13th, had driven the enemy's ships to the southward, and on the 14th, at night, Commodore Decatur dropped down to Sandy Hook with the President alone, intending to run off the coast before the British ships could get back to their station. The night was very dark, and in attempting to cross the bar, the pilot missed the characteristic than the pilot missed. temping to cross the bar, the pilot missed the channel, running the ship on to the sands, where she lay beating heavily for nearly two hours. At the top of the tide, however, the frigate was forced into deep weter. By this unfortunate and ill-timed mishap, the Presi-dent was a good deal injured; but it was im-possible to return, and Com Decatur deter-mined to run off to the northward and east-ward along the land to avoid the enemy's squadron; which might, at may morent besquadron; which might, at any moment, be expected from the leeward position, to which it had been driven on the day previous. The shipe's head was accordingly put to the northward and eastward, on which course she run for five hours, when she was headed S. E. by E. About 5, on the following morning, a strange sail was made ahead and within gu shot, and soon after two other sail were made. The President now hauled up, passing to the northward of the ships in sight. At daylight another vessel was observed. The American frigate now had four enemy in chase—one on each quarter and two astern. They were the squadron before referred to, viz: Majestic, Endymion, Pomone and Tenedos, the ship nearest the President being the former vessel. The Majestic fired two or three broadsides,

The Majesule fred two or three broadsides, without doing any injury.

The wind was light and variable during the forencon, and the English ships, with the exception of the Endymion, were gradually dropped astern. The Endymion—a twenty-four-pounder frigate, as was also the President—however, had closed with the American frigate, and an effort was made to improve the sailing of the latter, by throwing over the sailing of the latter, by throwing over some of the heavy stores with which she was heavily laden for a long cruise. The air was at this time very light and nearly aft. But about 3 P. M. a change in the wind occurred which gave a great advantage to the Endymon; it continued light with the American friests while the green's sendance was sendered. ing down with a fresh breeze. Soon after three the Endymion got within range, and opened fire with her bow guns; the President replied with her stern chasers, the object of each being to cripple its antagonist. It was remarked on board the President that her shot were through with an little was the two the control of the president that her shot were through with an little was the control of the president that her remarked on board the President that her shot were thrown with so little momentum, that they could be traced with the eye until they struck. No great damage, however, was sustained by either ship during this stern chase. It was not nutil five P. M. that the Endymion had so far gained on the American ship as to be on her lee quarter, that the cannonade became at all effective. The President could not bring a gun to bear, while she was herself subjected to a severe fire within point blank range, which did great damage aloft.

The American commander entertained the The American commander entertained the expectation that his enemy would range up alongside and lay the President aboard, but alongside and lay the President aboard, but Captain Hope was not disposed to surrender any of the advantages which the wind had given him. His purpose was to cripple the American ship, and thus insure her capture; for his consorts, the Pomone and Tenedos, were not very far astern, and were fast coming up. The Endymon, accordingly, by yawing, maintained her position of safety to herself and aunoyance to the President.—
Escape by fight had now become hopeless, and Commodore Decatur resolved to make the effort of laying himself aboard the Endyand Commodore Decatur resolved to make the effort of laying himself aboard the Endy-mion, and carrying that ship in a hand to hand light, go off with her, leaving his own ship with the enemy in exchange. With this object in view, the helm of the Presi-dent was put up, which brought her head to the Southward, the wind being aft. But the Endymion kept away at the same time, and the two ships coming abeam of each other, delivered their broadsides. The altempts of the President to close were unsuccessful, as the President to close were unsuccessful, as her antagonist sheered away whenever she began to haul near. The Endymion being the fastest vessel, was enabled to accept or refuse a close combat, as she might elect.

Com. Decatur, sceing that he could not get alongside his enemy, as long as the latter phose to world have to accept the restriction of the could not get alongside his enemy, as long as the latter phose to world him percent to the only when chose to avoid him, resorted to the only plan left, which offered a possible chance for es-caps. He directed his efforts to crippling the caps. He directed his efforts to crippling the Endymion, and throw her out of action, giv-ing the President a chance for escape from the rest of the squadron. The President was, therefore, kept dead before the wind, the two therefore, kept dead before the wind, the two ships running parallel lines, and both maintaining a heavy fire for two and a half hours. The English sinp suffered in this cannonade very severely, being so much cut up alof that the fell astern, while the American ship was under royal studding-sails, and in a condition to choose a position which would have soon compelled the former to surrender. By this time pint, but a time and trans over deals. competed the former to surfender. By this time, night had set in, and it was very dark. The enemy's vessels astern were in sight and the President was obliged to resume her course easterly, to avoid a force so superior. Accordingly, the American frigate hauled up, coming as she did so, under the broadside of her now silent and disabled antagonist. The President run of southeast but in conseher now silent and disabled antagonist. The President run off southeast, but in consequence of the injuries which she had received while on the bar and during an action of nearly ten hours, the enemy were enabled to close. At 11 P. M. the Pomone had placed herself ou the weather bow of the American frigate, from which position she poured in a broadside; the Tenedos was closing on the quarter, and the Majestic was within gunshot astern. The President was of course shot astern. The President was of cours obliged to submit, which she did to the squadron. Captain Decatur delivered his sword to the commander of the Majestic, the senior officer present.

The British press, at the time, claimed that the President had been captured by the Endymion, but the facts did not admit of cavil. The fire of the American ship had not call the subspecies of the subspe Great Excitement!!

THE BEST ASSORTMENT OF THE Longity of Michael Salver Ware. Strain of the American Ship had not only silenced her autagonist, but had so caril. The fire of the American Ship had not only silenced her autagonist, but had so caril. The fire of the American Ship had not only silenced her autagonist, but had so crippled her aloft that she was completely disabled for all the purposes of a combat, while the former was under her canvass, capable of taking any position she might choose. The fact is, that when the President hauled up to escape from the Endymiou's three consorts, the British art's queens of Sectiand, which concludes Britishant's Queens of Sectiand, which concludes British frigate was at the mercy of ler American antagonist. The former did not fire a gun at the latter, safer she passed out of the light to get away from the Pomone and Tenedos, and these strain and points the latter after she passed out of the light to get away from the Pomone and Tenedos, and these strain antagonist. The former of the American ship, left the Endymion far estern. Indeed, when the Pomone series were seen of the Section had terminated.

Pany. O. J. Woon:—Deer Sic.—Some mouth or six weeks ago I received a bottle of your Hair Restorative and gave it to my wife, who concluded to try is on her hair, little thinking at the time that it would restore the gray hair to its original color, but to her as well a my surprise, after a few weeks 'trisi it has performed that wondorful effect by I trasling all the gray hairs to a dark brown, at the same time beautifying and thickening the hair. I strongly secommend the above the electrative to all persons in want of such a change of their hair.

ILLINOIS CURRENCY .-- F. G. Apares, a banker of Chicago, in the last number of his Bank Note List, point, out one of the principal causes of the high rates of fixenange in Illinois and Wisconsin:

Receipts and alignments of produce are liberal, but in spite of these facts, exchange remains ruinously high, and no miscine the matter by talking of Western Indebtedness, demand of exchange, etc., gives the reason. Other Western States, like Indians, Missouri, and Iowa, are as deep in Jebt as Illinois, but exchange with them rules at from a quarter to half as much as it does in Chicago; and every business man knows that the only reason is, that the currence of these in the currence of these interests of the current of the cur rtible, easy enough to say that Chicago bankers should I country banks to redrem their issues, but the
